LOCAL AND PERSONAL

LIONS ARE HOSTS.

At eight o'clock Wednesday night, April 15, the doors of the new Miller building swung wide open to admit the Lions and their ladies of Group Eleven headed by District Governor Lion Dugger of San Antonio. The Hondo Lions Club was host to the group and put forth every effort to make the occasion a success and the visiting Lions feel welcome and "at home." Lion Dillon acted as toastmaster and opened the meeting by singing America with Mrs. W. L. Smith at the piano, after which Mr. Dillon extended a hearty welcome to the visitors from Fredericksburg, Pearsall, San Antonio and New Braunfels. This was responded to by the district Chairman, Mr. DeVilbiss of Pearsall. Then followed the reports of the different Clubs which were interesting and showed that the Lions throughout the Group are alert and aggressive in helping to build better communities by establishing better homes where the youth of the land get the first impression of responsibilities and duties. New Braunfels Lions spoke of the numerous activities they have launched and the many things accomplished, while San Antonio held high the banner of their Lion's Park where the youth of the city frolics and basks in the wintry sunshine, thus developing a physique that is able to harbor a soul that appreciates the big things of life and demonstrates to the world what Lionism means. District Governor Dugger gave a very flattering report of what the Clubs throughout his district had accomplished, he urged a continuation of their efforts and pledged his support toward gaining membership in the clubs.

Rev. Flynn, president of the Hondo Lions, was the speaker of the evening. He held his audience spellbound for thirty minutes not only with his Irish puns but with an oration that thrilled the hearts of all present. He spoke on better citizenship, and stressed the duties parents owe to their children, guiding them along life's pathway and instilling in their hearts a reverence and fear for God. In our modern times there seems too much laxity on child life, no restraint, no admonition by the parent. Too many times social privileges and bad companionship bring disgrace to home and community. Deny your child the privilege of social relation of certain types if it tends to make a criminal of him. As he leaves the home and school he enters the field of greater responsibility, a greater duty devolves upon him, that of duty to his country. We need not fear the enemy from without. Our greatest enemy is within our bounds. Licentiousness and vice are trying to break the bars of our homes and thus destroy its sanctity. We must stem the tide and destroy the monster whose venomous effusions are trying to destroy that liberty and freedom which was given us by those whose blood drenched that flag which is respected by all nations and which does not know defeat.

The entertainment given by local talent was classical and enjoyed by all. The violin solo by Mr. Couser with Mrs. A. M. Patterson, accompanist, was fascinating. The full, sweet, perfect tones showed his mastery of the instrument. Two quartettes by Mrs. Roland Gaines, Misses Sarah Rothe, Thelma Wilson and Margaret Dillon with Miss Josie Rothe at the piano had a wonderful blending of tones, and their mellow flow brought exquisite pleasure to the listeners. Bennie Crow entertained in a masterful way on the harmonica. We predict for him that he will some day broadcast his music over the radio system of the nation.

At the festive board about eighty epicurians satisfied their physical needs with a sumptuous repast prepared by the skilled master, Lion Stiegler. Other visitors present were Mrs. O. H. Miller, Hondo; Mrs. Herman Couser and Mr. A. M. Patterson of Devine.

R. A. Carter was a visitor in Sabinal Wednesday, where he demonstrated the Hart-Parr tractor for which he has recently taken the agency.

It costs little more to produce sweet cream and it brings a premium price. Ask A. A. STOCK at the cream station.

MATERIAL INTOXICATION.

America is face to face today with a very grave malady. Nor is it one that challenges the medical profession for its solution. Its symptoms may not be readily recognized, and often before the individual realizes it they are being dominated by it, and unless some mighty power is sought their lives are destroyed. Often the entire community becomes so intoxicated with materialism that they lose sight of the fundamental things of life and give themselves to an indulgence in the things of a material nature until every worthwhile principle of life is cast overboard. Thus the foundation of society is made to totter, as it must stand or fall by the development of our finer natures. The stamping out of this malady can only be accomplished by a turning to God, "The Great Physician," in Him and in Him alone is their relief.

Sympathy arises in our hearts for those who have become a victim of strong drink. The victim does not have the power within himself to abstain from it; he is a slave to it. Often there is a great desire to quit, but the habit is formed, the resistance is not sufficient to overcome it. He is a drunkard, outside help must come or else he is doomed. Is it not high time that every one should face up to their own condition and see if they are becoming intoxicated, influenced, controlled and dominated by this malady, materialism? Every individual comes into the world endowed with possibilities of God consciousness. But these possibilities will not be developed unless they are cultivated. They, like every other thing of value, are to be had only as a result of effort. To come into this quickened consciousness it is necessary for us to abstain from many material attachments of the past.

If a member of your body were to become diseased and it was necessary for it to be cut off that you might live, you would not hesitate to have it severed. Just so there are some contacts and affiliations in our lives that unless we cut loose from them they will mean the destruction of our Spiritual nature. Will you be more concerned about your physical life than your eternal Spiritual life? We need this God consciousness to help us to stay clear of those things that have a tendency to cast this drunken stupor of materialism over us, which causes us to throw overboard restraint and to become a victim of materialism. This materialistic philosophy may exist in the form of business relations with its many-sided approaches. Again it may be amusement, club life, lodges, pleasure, any one of which is sufficient to separate one from your duty to society, home, Church and the development of your spiritual life.

The Church has been placed in the world for the purpose of warning and helping us in the development of Christian character. The ministry has been called and commissioned to warn, admonish and to call us from the paths of sin back to God and to his service. You may refuse to heed the warning voice of his servants, continue the ways of the world, yes, still drink at the fountains of materialism until you are so intoxicated that you can only hear the materialist cry, "eat, drink and be merry for tomorrow you may die." But remember you shall live again, but where and how each one of us are determining today. Some of the greatest tragedies of the world's history could have been avoided had the warning voice been heeded. Hear the warning voice that is lifted in your city that you may not become intoxicated by this wave of materialism that is sweeping the land.

Take advantage of every opportunity to strengthen your spiritual life. We need everything the Church is offering; yes, Sunday school, prayer meeting, the revival services; avail yourself of those that are now in progress at the Baptist Church, you will receive help from them. The voice of the Lord is again lifted, hear ye, hear ye, and flee to the everlasting hills of the Lord.

Worship with us Sunday morning; evening hour we worship with the people of the Baptist Church. Epworth Leagues will meet at six-thirty and be out in time for the services at the Baptist Church.

BUSINESS MEN BANQUET.

About fifty Hondo business men enjoyed a banquet at the Chamber of Commerce Hall Wednesday evening. The meeting was called under the auspices of the Retail Merchants Association but was attended by others as well.

President Felix Batot of the Association presided and stated the purpose was to discuss ways and means of promoting trade in Hondo in general and the Trades Day in particular. He introduced Judge R. J. Noonan as the speaker of the evening.

Judge Noonan's speech was brief but decidedly to the point. He likened the local community to a family and said whatever family differences may arise the family must stick together against all outside influences that may disrupt the family or cause its disintegration. Scattering our trade out to competing towns is causing business disintegration for the community, and he offered as a remedy the suggestion that we not only preach but practice trading at home.

Several other informal talks were made along the same line by others present.

In the discussion, it was brought out that there is considerable difference of opinion about the best prizes to offer for Trades Day. Some thought that a few prizes of high quality live stock—the higher the better—is best. Others thought the more small prizes, either of money or merchandise, the greater the interest that would be aroused. In this connection, Mrs. Ray Jennings suggested that instead of cash merchandise trade coupons redeemable in trade at Hondo stores would be better. No conclusion was reached in the matter and Messrs. Joe Dillon, Henry Merriman and Earl Boon, were retained as directors of the Trades Day program, empowered to use their own discretion.

Messrs. O. H. Miller, R. A. Carter and Earl Boon were appointed a committee to consult the business places of the town with a view to promoting the sale by local merchants of only Hondo made bread.

Prof. Carroll, the evangelist singer here at the Baptist meeting, favored the audience with several beautiful songs, Mrs. Joe Dillon accompanying him on the piano.

The meeting then adjourned.

LIONS HEAR MINISTER

Hondo Lions had as their guests the distinguished Baptist minister, Rev. Merrill, and the noted evangelist singer, Prof. Carroll, who is conducting the song services at the Baptist meeting. He favored the Lions with two vocal selections, "When Honey Sings an Old Time Song" and "Can't You Hear Me Calling Caroline?", with Mrs. Dillon at the piano.

Rev. Merrill spoke of the worth of fraternal organizations in a community, and said that the spirit of cooperation is discernible and active in all service clubs. Their ideals are commendable and bring about a greater and stronger affiliation not only among the members but the laity as well. Meeting in common program stimulates a greater love, and strengthens the chords of friendship. No man liveth to himself alone, hence the success of a person depends upon the success of his fellowman, the strong should help the weak, thus inspiring them to nobler deeds and greater achievements; this can be accomplished through friendship and fraternity spirit only.

Hondo Lions welcome Rev. Merrill and appreciate his aggressive services to Hondo.

WOMEN'S MISSIONARY CONFERENCE.

The Conference meeting of West Texas of the Woman's Missionary Society convened in San Angelo, Texas, last week. There were over two hundred delegates in attendance representing the Methodist women's work of this Southwestern part of the State. Mrs. J. R. Chancey, Mrs. A. H. Schweers and Mrs. P. E. Lancaster went from the Hondo church. Mrs. Louie Heyen represented the New Fountain church. Rev. Lancaster accompanied the group.

It was a wonderfully inspirational meeting presenting the work the women had accomplished during the last year. In spite of the financial depression, there was an increase in finances. The delegates are unanimous in declaring San Angelo ideal in entertainment and true western hospitality.

THE LEGISLATIVE MILL.

By Fred W. Davis.

The House committee has promised to bring out the departmental appropriation bill next week. This is usually the last division of the general appropriation to be enacted.

The Senate has acted upon the judiciary and educational appropriation, including rural aid. Indications are there will be little or no reduction in the budget when finally completed. The larger items are usually increased which more than offsets saving on smaller ones.

It is the common practice to begin at the bottom in our efforts to economize. The party barely getting enough salary to sustain him is in more danger of having his salary reduced than the party drawing much more. Most all salary advances within the last ten years have been to the ones who were already drawing the best salaries.

In rural school aid it is not the purpose to help those communities too poor to help themselves, for no community can secure aid unless it can come up to certain standards. Really a community that can qualify for rural aid can usually get along without it. And speaking of schools we were recently reminded that within the last fifteen years our annual school budget has gone from thirteen to sixty-two million dollars. The time has come when the strictest business principles should be established in our educational work. There is no more justification for wasting money on education than upon any other purpose. Misdeeds are not justified because the purpose is worthy.

The House killed, by a decisive vote, the anti-lobby bill. This is a delicate subject to discuss because many claim that for the legislature to pass a bill against lobbying is to admit there are legislative wrongs committed under lobby influences. There is no question but what those interests that employ lobbyists get more legislative consideration, as a rule, than the passive multitude that employ no lobbyists. This is proven by observing the legislature in action and by reading its acts. This is not necessarily an indictment of the legislature. It may be the natural result of influence of personal contact. All through life the most persistent receive the greatest consideration. The meek may inherit the earth but not the political plums. Judges do not consider it an impeachment of their integrity for those at the bar to employ the ablest counsel they can get. Not many members of the legislature could hope to come back again if they should stay at home and say nothing while their opponents made active campaigns.

BAPTIST NEWS NOTES.

The special revival meetings at the Baptist church are now on, having begun on last Sunday. At the first service there were five who united with the church. The attendance, considering the rains and cold, has been very good. The co-operation being given us by our friends of the other churches has been all which we could ask. Moreover, the spirit of the meetings has been the best. Mr. T. D. Carroll, the Gospel singer who leads the music, is worth much to the soul to hear him sing the glorious Gospel Songs. The hours for the meetings are 10 A. M. and 7:45 P. M. The morning services last just 45 minutes. You are urged to come as often as possible. "Come thou with us and we will do thee good, for the Lord hath promised good to Israel."

At 7:15 P. M. Mr. Carroll urges the young folks to meet him at the church for a 30 minutes meeting. Both in life and in death, we look to Him who created us, and who preserves us and who died to save us, for that help which can come from no other source. "What shall it profit a man, if he shall gain the whole world and lose his soul; or what shall a man give in exchange for his soul?" We especially urge the folks from the farms to come and get the spiritual blessings which we all need so much. Come while the roads are passable.

PASTOR.

IN OLD ALGERIA.

The musical comedy, "In Old Algeria," featuring the Glee Clubs of Hondo High School and the Hondo Orchestra, Friday night in the auditorium, was presented before a fairly large audience. It was regrettable that the players hadn't learned their lines as it made an otherwise clever presentation faltering. However, the musical numbers were very good; the orchestrations, solos and choruses were well received and applauded by the listeners. In spite of the slow movement of the play, the humorous element was always present to keep the audience laughing. Especially good in these roles were Frank Rucker as an Hebrew gentleman, and Edward Armstrong as an amateur detective.

Two dance numbers were greatly enjoyed. A clever tap dance was rendered by Misses Wanda Redmond, Mary Elizabeth Meyer and Evelyn Knopp in appropriate black and white costumes. The second tap dance presented little Misses Margaret Ann Knopp, Bettye Jean Merriman and Mary Ann Noonan, in flower costumes of pastel colors. This was the last presentation of the Glee Clubs and Orchestra for the present school year.

DEVINE NEWSLETS

From Devine News.

DEVINE NOW HAS A NEW MAYOR.

On Monday evening of this week, Mr. M. A. Keller, the new mayor elected last week, took over the affairs of that office, and the retiring mayor, M. E. DuBose, joined the Ladd excursion for the Rio Grande Valley, having served six years; and as his friends believe, had accomplished more than any of his predecessors. The mayor, however, is only one of three commissioners, and by virtue of his office, chairman of the city commission. Mr. Keller has served as Fire Chief, the past few years, since we have had a volunteer fire company, and of course, vacated this office. We have not learned who will succeed Mr. Keller. The new mayor has won this office without opposition, because of his loyalty to Devine, and all her institutions, and his progressive liberal policies. The other commissioners, Messrs. W. M. Williamson, cashier of the Adams National Bank, and G. D. Whitfield, head of the Devine Motor Co., hold their places by virtue of their conservatism and business ability; and Devine people may rest assured that the City's business is still in good hands. Mr. W. E. Russell will still be manager of the Waterworks and City Clerk; really the most important of all, though only an appointive office.

QUIHI NOTES.

"The lip of truth shall be established forever; but a lying tongue is but for a moment." Proverbs 12: 19.

No service and no Sunday school and Bible class will be held in Bethlehem Lutheran church Sunday because of the absence of the pastor, who is attending the annual convention of the American Lutheran Church at Seguin.

Saturday night, May 2, an interesting and entertaining community lawn social will be given at the Quihi parish hall and on the church lawn. An excellent program, refreshments and other entertaining features will afford both old and young wholesome pleasure. The occasion will afford friends and neighbors a nice opportunity to meet for a few hours in social intercourse. All are cordially invited to come and bring with them their friends and neighbors.

The program for the community social on the night of May 2 is made up of fine musical and literary numbers, to-wit: Several selections by the Quihi church choir, address by the pastor, select reading by Miss Pauline Graff and Mr. Arnold Reitzler, a selection by the Quihi Male Chorus led by Mr. Frank Boehle, a monologue by Miss Eileen Hartmann, a declamation by Mr. Elmer Loessberg, vocal selections by Mesdames Frank Boehle and Walter Grell and fine instrumental selections by Miss Alma Grell and Mr. Clarence Daily. The musical-literary program given by the Quihi Luther League last Sunday night was very good in every respect and afforded much wholesome pleasure to a large and appreciative audience. All numbers on the program were carefully prepared and rendered excellently. It surely reflects much credit on the young men and ladies of a community to give a high classed program, such as this one was.

Mr. and Mrs. William Reichel, Mr. and Mrs. F. Kutschenreuter and family and Misses Julia Kutschenreuter and Annie Eberhardt from San Antonio were visiting Mr. and Mrs. John Koenig and family Sunday.

Commissioner Robt. Rihn had a force of men busy the past week hauling gravel on the LaCoste-Pearson road, graveling said road starting where the former gravel topping stopped to the hill. He also had the grader busy on the streets in LaCoste.

COLONIAL COVERINGS.

Overflowing with the richest of screen values—direction, acting, photography, music, eye-and-ear interest—"The Blue Angel" opens at the Colonial Theatre Sunday and will rock audiences with its awesome dramatic power. "The Blue Angel" is Emil Jannings' first talkie. But in addition to this there are two other great names which would be unequivocal guarantees of its success as a box office attraction, Joseph Von Sternberg, the director, and Marlene Dietrich, the blond and beautiful leading lady. A description of "The Blue Angel" would be pitifully inadequate. Suffice it to say that it is the dramatic tale of the degradation of a righteous man who falls into a mis-matched love affair, that it is an opus which gives us Jannings at his best; Dietrich at her best; and Von Sternberg as his best. Don't miss seeing it, by any means.

Don't believe all you hear and very little of what you see. Such is the moral that may be gleaned from "It's a Wise Child" which opens Thursday at the Colonial Theatre with Marion Davies in the starring role. This hilarious M-G-M. production is a racy farce of small-town life with gossiping tongues for a novel and daring plot. In the role of Joyce, the town belle, who is believed to have committed an indiscretion, Miss Davies scores new triumphs. Her performance is deftly that keeps pace with the swift action shaded and is played in a high key and gains momentum with it until the surprising climax. Sidney Blackmer scores opposite the star as the lawyer who can't get along with or without his troublesome but attractive client. Other stellar lights are James Gleason, Marie Prevost, Polly Moran and Lester Vail.

Throckmorton, Texas, that Francis Marion Davis, V. made his arrival in the home of Mr. and Mrs. F.
Marion Davis on Friday, April 17,

lump of 7 1/2-pounds of "manliness"
—according to his papa—is not only son and heir to all his father possesses but the fifth generation in line to own the name "Francis Marion," handed down from a South Carolina ancestry who admired the Revolutionary hero of that name.

EDITORIALS

With every product of the field at a starvation level in price, advice to reduce acreage in any given crop is to advise the abandonment of so many acres from production or change to another crop in an inevitable losing venture.

Without New York's vote in the electoral college it would be all but impossible for the Democrats to elect a President. With a three-cornered fight brewing between Smith, Roosevelt and Young in that state it would look at this distance as if four more years of Hoover are inevitable.

One of the reasons why little in the way of tax-reform can be hoped for from the present legislature is because some of those loudest in protesting an increase in their taxes are most insistent upon the state embarking into new enterprises calling for the expenditure of more money. The only way to reduce taxes is to reduce expenditures.

After spending $500,000,000 in a vain effort to "relieve" the farmers the Federal Farm Board has summed up its achievement by informing the farmers that if they want relief they must reduce acreage—"reduce," mind you, not change or diversify crops! Summed up to its logical finale the Farm Board's advice to the farmers is to play mum-b'-neg—instead of plowing crops—and prosper!

With war-prices for farm products now a thing of the past and an indefinite period of low prices ahead of us, reduced cost of production is the farmers' only safety valve against a possible financial blow-up. But the trouble with the cotton farmer is that about the only chance to reduce cost of production is to reduce the standard of living—a standard already too low in comparison with the service he renders humanity.

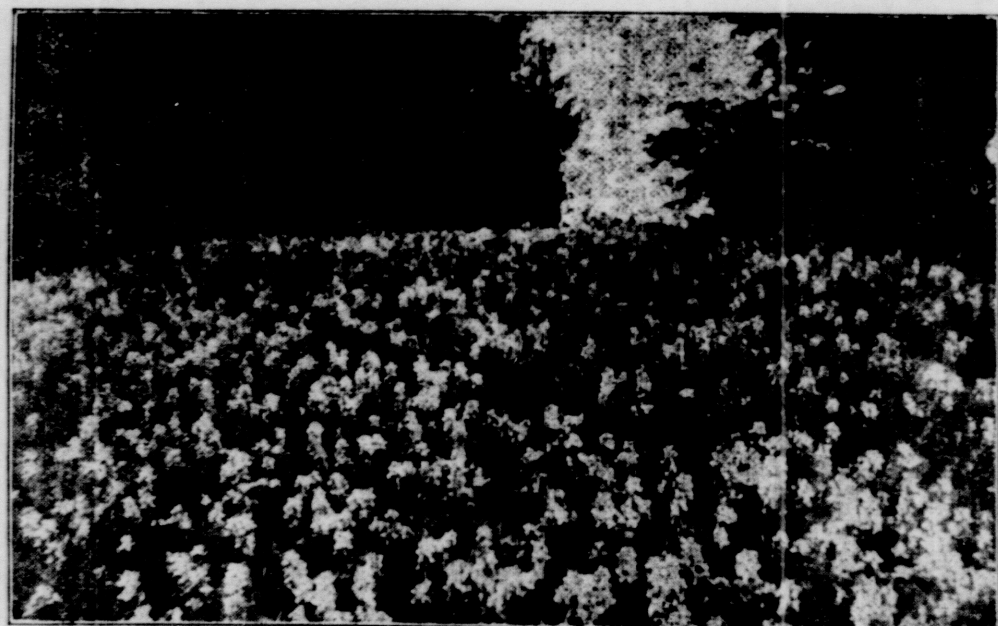

This paper is for Al Smith for President in 1932. Al is "all wet" on his plans for dealing with the liquor problem, but so are the "drys," for that matter. No political leader seems honest enough to face the real situation in the matter of liquor regulation, so in that particular Al is no worse than the rest. After the mess Hoover and his smelling committee have made of dealing with it, fairness would dictate that Al should have his try at it.

WOULD LET PEOPLE FARM THEIR OWN WAY.

So finds Fletcher's States Rights Farming, way down at Hondo, as follows:
The seed time is here. Good seed on a well prepared seed bed is the first essential of producing a good crop.
That is good and timely advice for every farmer. Looks like some farmers, though, in this section, are not following the old plan of plowing the land before Christmas, and letting the winter rains soak in, as we notice some of them now plowing up one week and planting the next. We are inclined to think they know best how to farm, however, so we are in favor of letting them farm as they think right and proper.—Fred B. Robinson in Waco News Tribune.

TEXAS BLUEBONNETS

Lines by Fletcher Davis.

"And now wheresoever growing
They but mark the far-spread footsteps
Of the banished lover's
Wide and aimless wanderings!"

Hard by the desert's rim,
Where the tangled wild-wood Reached up from the winding river's brink,

As it stretched a verdant ribbon
Across the scorched plain's vast expanse,
And faded into the desert's treeless
void,

Two tawny children
Of the dim and shady forest
Found joyous trysting place.

Off at break of day,
While their elders still were sleeping,

These young Tejans
Stole away from the ancient teepees,
Where the tribesmen dwelt in their forest home,
To watch a morning sun
Burst in glory over the far-distant eastern hills;

Full off they reveled in the wealth
Of its gorgeous setting
In a gold and purple west!

And as the seasons ran,
They saw the Drouth
Wield his relentless scythe of death
Across the parched plain;
Then laughed with the joy of the growing things

That trailed in the foot-prints of the reviving Rain!

The howling Norther's rage
Chilled and killed their cherished
growing things

And drove their feathered neighbors
To seek a more Southern clime;
Then they learned to watch for their return

With the advent of the spring.

These forest children, older grown,
All unawares of the Cosmic urge
That stirred a strange unrest

TOO MUCH LAW MEANS TOO MUCH LAW BREAKING.

In discussing the political mania in this country for trying to remedy all problems by the passage of a "new law," by the establishment of a new regulatory board or commission or by handing out public funds in an endeavor to benefit one group of citizens at the public expense, a keen student of economic affairs recently said:

"We allow disappointments in un-achieved objectives to ruin our perspective; we become disgusted with

Within their bosom's core,
Into fond lovers grew.

Then on an early morn in spring
As they watched two bluebirds Build their nest, as oft they had watched before,
A strange mad frenzy seized the lad!

As the maiden watched, entranced
in wonder,
The billing antics of the birds,
There was a twang of bow-string
And an arrow's hurtling swish
As it sped upon its swift flight of death—

And one of the feathered songsters
Lay mute and dead!

In a flood of angry passion
She turned upon her jealous lover
Whose resentment at her affection
For his feathered rivals
Had provoked the cruel deed,
And heedless of his pleadings,
Drove him from her

Into the trackless desert's far ex-
panse,
And shamed beyond all measure,
He returned to her no more forever!

And they tell
That as if to hide
The innocent blood so thoughtless shed,

Where spread upon the crimsoned desert dust

The fallen bluebird's wings,
As if his plumage turned to living flower,

The bluebonnets sprang first into bloom;

And now wheresoever growing
They but mark the far-spread footsteps

Of the banished lover's
Wide and aimless wanderings!

further attempts at reconciliations of differences between parties and accept the other alternative of legislative enactment to impose a superior force on unreconciled parties, which leads only to bad faith, long delay in judicial interpretation and economic distress with all its consequent hatreds and fears. And so the cycle begins anew. We need patience and much fortitude to undo the stupidity of the past."—Selected.

Politeness has been well defined as benevolence in small things.—
Macaulay.

The blessing of the Lord, it mak-eth rich and He addeth no sorrow with it.—Prov. 10:22.

We wonder what the voters who voted to give the legislators double pay and double time to do their work in the hope of getting more efficient legislation think now of what they are getting at Austin?

The principle of co-operative bargaining is sound, and eventually men with a common interest, if left alone, will work it out for themselves "on the ground." The trouble with the movement in this country is that instead of the government "encouraging" the farmers by giving them a free hand in their efforts to co-operate among themselves, it has attempted to hand co-operation down to the farmers from above on a Farm-Board-silver-platter! And it won't work!

If economic costs to the consumer kept a natural downward course in equal ratio with the increased volume of production incident to improved machinery poverty and want would be unknown and the people would grow fat in their consumption of what is now decreed as a ruinous surplus. A system that increases volume of production without reducing the cost of distribution, to the consumer is destined sooner or later to be its own undoing. Has the undoing process already begun in our country?

"Plant more feed crops" advises the well intentioned city friend of the farmer. Then he drives in his gasoline-fed automobile out into the country to find the farmer; busy with his tractor following the advice. Later, when a power-driven machine has threshed it, the farmer will load it into a motor-pulled truck and haul it away—in search of some one who wants to feed it! This is not a grouch against improved machinery.
It is a plea for less half-baked advice and a more earnest effort on the part of all at re-adjustment to changed and rapidly changing conditions.

THINKS FARMERS' LOBBY WOULD HELP.

Declares Editor Fletcher Davis, in Fletcher's State Rights Farming, published at Hondo:
It is a sad commentary upon the wisdom, the integrity, or both, of our legislators that they cannot transact the state's business without being surrounded by a small army of lobbyists. It shows that the people to be affected by pending legislation either do not trust the legislators to act honestly and intelligently or else they hope to influence them dishonestly.

Like the poor, the lobby seems to be with us always, in legislative assemblies. And even now, looks like Brother John Strauss, over at Robinson, on the "Sap" highway, is going to try and have a farmers' lobby to look after matters. Well, as every other interest has a lobby there, why not the farmers? They would not be able to offer many "blandishments," and results would be to the interest of the people, since they are in the majority censurably.—Fred B. Robinson in Waco News Tribune.

THE LURE OF THE LAND.

By Rev. Geo. E. Pentecost.

I walk again a busy street,
Where strange and countless people meet;
But I am not contented here—
And I shall never be, I fear!

My cloistered soul cannot but yield
To voices calling from the field;
For I can fancy myriad sounds,
That lure me back to sodded grounds.

Then I would leave the crowded street,
And seek repose at Nature's feet,
Where, all day long and into night
There's something for my soul's delight.

I long for the secluded haunts,
Where often I have made my haunts
Among the briars and the brambles,
Where flowers bloom and wild life rambles.

Then spurning cold repulsive walls,
I'm following the distant calls,
That woo me back to singing birds
And scenes of lowly winding herds.

I would away from streets and alleys,
To life among the hills and valleys;
Back to the land, with subtle charm,
And quiet life upon the farm.

RETRIBUTION.

By Doris Lee Rivers.

Upon the swinging doors to the shrouded past,
There is no lock, there is no key;
Through them uninvited today departs with scornful mien
And yesterdays come back to me.

Fair yesterdays, ablaze with scintillating hours,
Untarnished by the mould of time;
I take from slender hands, dear days like treasured pearls,
And once again, I claim them mine.

Dark yesterdays, unwelcome guests with shame-bowed heads,
Like slinking shadows, they return
To gaze accusingly with deep reproachful eyes—
Their eyes, Oh God, they burn, they burn!

BETTER THAN GOLD.

By Jessica May Young.

The hopes of my youth, like Sirius,
Have set with the summer sun;
The sands of my life are nearly run,
And the shades of winter gather 'round,—
I hear a sweet melodious sound—
This is what the scented breezes bring:
"Dreams are frail as a butterfly's wing,
Visions of wealth are things of the past,—
Gone in a moment, seldom they last,
And are as fickle as glory and fame.
Remember this, you have a good name;
That is better than honor or gold."

THE LEGISLATIVE MILL.

and that the present constitution made A. & M. a branch of the University for the purpose of sharing the fund only. This explanation needs no comment. The truth is our legislatures have been violating the constitution and doubling-crossing on this question for years and it does seem like it is time to settle this question one way or the other.

The resolution, requiring the ballot walked the plank Thursday at the house. It required a two-thirds vote but didn't get but about one-fifth of the membership. Let us hope this is the beginning of the demise of most of the efforts of this legislature to tamper with the fundamental law. We have recently passed a few constitutional amendments and their benefits are not yet manifest. A former speaker of the house told this writer recently that the only legislative difference under the new amendment, affecting the legislature, is a-ble the time and double the pay. There are predictions a plenty that a self-passing will immediately follow the regular 120 day session.

The resolution designated to provide for same rule in county governments to permit county manager government and merge city and county governments, lacked the necessary two thirds in the house but by some maneuver was not considered lost. It will be up again.

The proponents of this resolution claim will reduce the costs of coun-

THE PRICE.

By Mary Louise Frazier.

I loved! And yet I did not know How much I really loved until Death came with all its poignant woe
And pierced my heart with icy chill;
It left my world all bleak and bare,
It stole the one I held most dear,
And cast me into deep despair
For when I wept death seemed to jeer.

And then, thank God! there came the dawn,
The clouds in parting showed me light,
Then from my skies they were withdrawn;
Blue skies, new hope, all made so bright
By faith in God to fill my life
With peace, and joy in work—new love:
Hard was the way that passed all strife,
And yet, it was the way to shove!

The scenes of life have changed for me,
It took a death to rouse my brain
That was asleep, and make me see
That selfish love's a narrow lane,
If one's enrapt in it as I
Without regard to all the work
I should attend, and thus supply
Some vacant place—instead of shirk!

MISS PLEASURE AND MISS SORROW.

By R. L. Campbell.

Miss Pleasure is a charming lass,
And yet she is so fickle!
She often shuns or flouts one class
Another class to tickle.
She counts her suitors by the score,
But none of them will wed;
They seek for her from shore to shore
When from them she had fled.

Miss Sorrow is a teacher great,
And yet we try to shun her,
We try her prowess to berate
But find she is a runner.
For truants she has always caught
And brought back to her school;
Chained to their tasks they then are taught
To let this teacher rule.

TO MY LADY OF THE PRINTED PAGE.

By Ralph Marie Audrieth.

Scintillating star, so far remote from me
That only in my dreams do I encounter Thee
In all Thy beauty, radiant as the moon;
Earthly as I, or rather a Goddess divine,
Sweetly you glance from out the printed page:
Woman that thou art, or Goddess, would thou wer't mine.

O, far reaching moon, cover well my eyes,
That I might not see how distant lies
The world where She, my lady of the printed page,
And I, Poet and lover of all things that be,
Stroll and commune together, from the world apart;
Cover thou well my eyes from this reality.

SINCERITY.

(Dedicated to Fletcher Davis.)

By Mrs. Elizabeth Giles Winn.

Real friendship conveys a deeper significance
Than the average mind can adequately conceive,
Tho a deep self-sacrificing heart creates a reason
For vain folk lost in their thoughts that deceive.

Selfishness can't reach the finer senses,
It hasn't time for those genuine feelings—
Too busy framing self in greedy seekings—
Thus ruthlessly leaving a splendid heart
To bear its own deep grievings.
Real friends are precious jewels, rare;
Touch feelingly their tender heartstrings—
sincerity repeats,
Else friends, they sigh, then break
And fall about you—a shattered heap.
Each person that feels God's kingdom
Remains stately and serene,
For realism creates a link between this world and that unseen,
And sincerity and persistency will achieve,
even in a mind of dreams.

SPRING IS IN THE AIR.

By Vida B. Butcher.

Dame Nature is awaking;
King Winter she's forsaking.
Rain-drops are falling,
Black-birds are calling—
"Spring is in the air!"

Deep rivers now are flowing;
Bright sunsets, too, are glowing.
Robins are singing,
Blue-birds are winging—
"Spring is in the air!"

The hill tops are a-greening;
The meadows are a-greening.
Cattle are lowing,
Soft winds are blowing—
"Spring is in the air!"

Gray pigeons are low cooing;
Fond lovers are wooing.
Flowers unfolding,
Beauty beholding—
"Spring is in the air!"

THE INNER LIFE.

By Amie L. DeBerger.

In dark despair I sought to find
The hidden truths of life,
That I might know a greater joy,
Apart from worldly strife.

But vainly I have searched and now
This truth is plain to see,
It is not found but lives within
The undiscovered me.

than 100 resolutions calling for constitutional amendments and the total number of bills will likely go beyond 1,600. The house committee on revenue and taxation promises to take up in earnest, next week, the various revenue measures it has under consideration. Until this committee shows its hand we can not know the sources from which the legislature intends to get the funds to meet the state budget.

Just now a breach between the governor and the legislature seems to be brewing. The breach between the governor and the Railway Commission has been reflected in the legislature, also, on the general question governing utilities. The next few weeks may furnish some surprises.
Let us hope they will not furnish many disappointments.

Train Loads of Smells
The north-bound freight trains that you meet these days are loaded with onions from the Laredo-Pass section, where train ships ments are being made daily now. The Texas onion crop is eagerly expected by onion eaters in the North, who declare that it excels in delicate flavor and food value the onions from any other part of the world. The crop this year in Texas is averaging 300 bushels per acre and a total yield in excess of four million bushels is expected in the State.

Gonzales Library Assured
Through the united effort of club women of Gonzales that town is promised its first real public library. The women have agreed that a thriving city with the historic, literary and cultural interest of Gonzales should be ashamed to be without a public library. There are a number of other Texas towns that should take such steps.

Lubbock Keeps Building
Announcement reaches this column from Lubbock that there is no let-up in building there, there being more than $1,000,000 in public improvement under way and contemplated, with an equal amount of private construction expected for the year. That city is also hoping to secure the Texas-Pacific railway extension from Big Spring, which only awaits favorable action of the Interstate Commerce Commission.

Fine Arts Exhibition
Bastrop has been enjoying the exhibit of Texas art, which is assembled by the Texas Fine Arts Association and sent free of charge to such places as make application for it. There is one work of the association that helps bring about a better appreciation of Texas art and artists throughout the State, and many cities and towns look forward every year to it with keen interest, a new group of pictures being assembled each year.

Improving Pecan Trees
A Brady real estate owner is having more than 500 native pecan trees topworked to thin-shell pecans. These trees line the banks of a stream on his place, and while they have been irregular producers of native pecans, they have not brought anything like the income that can be secured from better nuts to which they are being budded. Topworking pecan trees is being done in many sections of the State.

Sheep Go to Mexico
Delaine Merino sheep are being shipped from Bexar county to Mexico for breeding purposes. The Mexican farmers are readjusting farming methods, and naturally turn to Texas, one of the leading sheep growing States, for the best breeding stock.

First Radish Shipments
Upshur county—Gilmer, the county seat—has shipped its first carload of radishes from a 1,500 acreage. The county is also growing beans, Irish potatoes, squash, cucumbers and watermelons in carshipment quantities. Diversification is paying.

Increasing Membership
Nixon is not a large town, but it belies in its chamber of commerce. The membership was increased 90 in a recent campaign and includes town people and neighboring farmers. The success of the Nixon organization is largely attributed to the united efforts of both town and country people in whatever is undertaken.

AFTER 40 bowel trouble

Constipation may very easily become chronic after forty. And any continued constipation at that time of life may bring attacks of piles and a host of other unpleasant disorders.

Watch your bowels at any age. Guard them with particular care after forty. Whenever they need any help, remember a doctor should know what is best for them.

"Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin" is a doctor's prescription for the bowels. Tested by 47 years' practice, it has been found thoroughly effective in relieving constipation and its ills for men, women and children of all ages. It has proven perfectly safe even for babies. Made from fresh laxative herbs, pure pepsin and other harmless ingredients, it cannot gripe; will not sicken you or weaken you; can be used without harm as often as your breath is bad, or when your tongue is coated; whenever a headachy, bilious, gassy condition warns of constipation.
